

WATTIE BOONE & SONS
KENTUCKY'S FIRST MASTER DISTILLER

10 YEAR AMERICAN WHISKEY

750mL

This special release of Wattie Boone American Whiskey was distilled in Tennessee utilizing a proprietary bourbon mashbill, then aged in a single-story warehouse in the heart of Kentucky's bourbon empire, along the very river where Wattie distilled his first Kentucky Bourbon.

Resting in experimental oak barrels for more than 10 years, each 2-3 barrel batch provides a unique, subtle sweetness with balanced oak and hints of vanilla. Finished at 94.7 proof, this whiskey segues from well-made corn, rye and malted barley, to lingering notes of sweet spices, coupled with a touch of anise and the return of long, drawn-out Madagascar vanilla, resulting in an irresistible combination of a finely distilled whiskey.

Historians have long said that Kentucky Bourbon pioneer, Wattie Boone, was likely the first to officially make whiskey in Kentucky, documented as early as 1776, the same year Congress signed the Declaration of Independence. A brave pioneer, Wattie made his way through the Appalachian Mountains' Cumberland Gap, before arriving in what is today, Nelson County. Enjoy every drop of this whiskey as we take you on Wattie's journey from Tennessee to his first home in Bardstown, Kentucky.
